

“...there are no uninteresting objects, stuff, things in the world as long as there is an artist who in view of these objects, this stuff, these things opens his eyes widely and looks at these objects, this stuff, these things with the baffled look of a simpleton...” (after Abram Tertz: Eine Stimme im Chor)